nitasha.kaul[at]gmail.com

N.Kaul[at]westminster.ac.uk

Politics and International Relations Academic, Economist,
Novelist, Poet, Artist

Underlying the diverse areas of my work is the common thread of investigation into how Relationality, Marginality, and Entrenchment matter in how we make sense of the world. Therefore, across disciplines, geographies, and over the years, the themes that motivate my work are as follows: the need to foreground and critically analyse -- institutions and systematisations of knowledge trajectories (and their link to systems of oppression, discourses of legitimisation, and narratives of dispossession); indigenisations of political expression; the use of memory as a resource; and the understanding of identities as they travel through the disciplining processes of territory and time.

Print interviews/Features/Photography/Quotes/Reviews/Analyses

I have been targeted by practices of transnational repression (especially mobility controls) owing to my work on the desirability of democratic values. I was invited to Conference on the Constitution (24-25 February 2024) by State Government (Congress) in Karnataka, India but was denied entry "on orders from Delhi" without any written or public reason, despite all valid documents, and was asked by immigration authorities about my work being critical of RSS (ideological parent of ruling BJP) in India. I was detained at airport under armed guard for 24 hours and deported back to the UK without any explanation. See <https://twitter.com/NitashaKaul/status/1761711445375410514> (over 3.1 million views of my public thread on this anti-democratic move against academic freedom). Following this, hundreds of news media have done stories covering my case. Professionals, organisations, parliamentarians, politicians, activists, academics, lawyers and human rights groups in India and abroad have spoken up in my support and against this kind of assault on rights since then, as have current and former state govt chief/ministers from parties except the BJP (see an illustrative compilation of images in collage in the thread at <https://x.com/NitashaKaul/status/1769752386736669125>).

International Studies Association (ISA) Academic Freedom Statement:

<https://www.isanet.org/News/ID/6389>

"The International Studies Association (ISA) expresses grave concern over the declining state of academic freedom in India. In particular, we are concerned that academic freedom and institutional autonomy are being systematically eroded by political control and interference by the state and/or ruling parties. India has ratified the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR) without filing a reservation to article 15.3 that protects the "freedom indispensable for scientific research". Most recently, one of our members, Professor Nitasha Kaul, was detained at the border and refused entry to India when she arrived to fulfil an academic speaking engagement at the invitation of the Karnataka Government, despite holding the relevant travel authorisations".

Scholars at Risk Network (SAR) Academic Freedom Monitoring Project, 2024 Register

<https://www.scholarsatrisk.org/report/2024-02-23-university-of-westminster/>

"Scholars at Risk is concerned about state authorities denying a scholar entry to their country in an apparent effort to restrict or retaliate against her nonviolent exercise of academic freedom – conduct which is protected by international human rights instruments including the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, to which India is a signatory. State authorities have an obligation to refrain from actions that restrict or retaliate against academic activity so long as it is peaceful and responsible. In addition to harm to the immediate victim, travel restrictions intended to deter such activity undermine academic freedom and democratic society generally".
